

CITY IN DANGER OF NEGLECT OF SOLDIER BOYS

Careless Disregard of War
Work Campaign May Prove Disgrace

BUT ONE DAY REMAINS

Unless Tardy Ones "Come Across" Tomorrow Record Is Sullied

"If their automobile or moving picture show should be taken away from some of the people of this community you would hear their protests to heaven," said a member of the Lee County United War Work Committee this morning, "but these same people will sit comfortably at home, free in all of their amusements and the restrictions of war rarely being removed and actually against giving their little quota toward helping the thousands of American boys in France, Siberia and the camps of this country. The fact that the soldiers have gone through hell, almost, to bring a betterment of conditions here evidently means nothing to a whole lot of people in Dixon and vicinity, who seem to think the soldiers need absolutely no amusements, or comforts, or a place and opportunity to write home; who seem to think that the sole compensation of a soldier should be his $30 a month, something to wear, something to eat and the knowledge that he is a soldier."

May Fail Quota.
There was absolute disgust in the tone and in the facial expression of the speaker. He had just learned by checking over the subscriptions to the United War Work fund that Dixon township is in dire danger of failing to meet its quota by tomorrow night—and that the record of the community which has been clean throughout the war may be sullied by neglect in the first thing asked after fighting has ceased.

Scores of Dixon people have not even taken the trouble to call and learn what their quotas are, much less making any contributions; others have made no effort to ascertain their quotas but have hoped to "get by" by mailing in checks for ridiculously small amounts compared with their means; and others who could easily have exceeded their quotas—and who were really expected to do so—have been content to give the mite they were asked.

Soldiers Still Busy.
The activities of the American soldiers are not over and they must be properly taken care of. The army cannot provide the little comforts, such as a movie occasionally, a chocolate bar once in a while to at least remind the absent boy of the folks at home, a cheering word from one of the American girls in the canteens, a place to rest and read or to write to loved ones back here in the land of plenty.

It's up to the people of America to provide these things, and the people of Dixon township and Lee county are not going to be allowed to shirk their part of the work.

The State Council of Defense bulletin board at the court house will receive some startling inscriptions and names Monday morning unless the owners of those names call at the drive headquarters at the Dixon Realty office before 9 o'clock tomorrow evening and at least pay the interest on the debt they owe the twenty-one Lee county patriots who have made the supreme sacrifice and the hundreds of others who have shared the dangers willingly.

TO SHOW EDUCATIONAL PROGRESS THRU FILMS

STATE INSPECTOR HOFFMAN WILL EXHIBIT PICTURES IN
LEE CO. NEXT WEEK.

U. J. Hoffman, state inspector of schools, will visit Lee county next Monday and Tuesday. Mr. Hoffman will bring with him the films taken at the state fair showing the progress in education during the past 100 years. Monday evening the films will be shown in the auditorium of the south side high school. There will be no admission fee charged to either entertainment and it is expected that all interested in education will witness these pictures.

CENSORSHIP LIFTED
By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Nov. 15.—The censorship of press messages in cable, postal or land telegraph service was lifted today by the government censorship board.

ELMER RICE IS NOW IN WATERLOO

A recent issue of the Waterloo, Ia., Times-Tribune contains an extended illustrated article concerning the activities of the Waterloo Y. M. C. A., in which association Elmer E. Rice, son of Dr. J. W. Rice of this city, is in charge of music. He has several classes, a glee club, etc. and is spoken of in the highest terms by the Waterloo people. The young man's many Dixon friends will unite in congratulations to him in his excellent position.

ARRANGING FOR PEACE CONFERENCE; WILL BE HELD AT VERSAILLES

Great Meeting Will Convene In Paris Suburb
Before December 15

DISCUSS THE DETAILS

Leaders of Forces of Various Nations To Plan
Program of Meet

Paris, Nov. 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—It is probable that the first meeting of the peace congress will be on a date before Dec. 15, after the English parliamentary elections, and at a time which will give ample opportunity for the American and other delegates to arrive. A meeting of the interallied conference, to be held shortly will finally determine the details of these questions.

Premier David Lloyd George and Foreign Minister Balfour of Great Britain, Premier Orlando and Foreign Minister Sonnino of Italy, Premier Venizelos of Greece and Foreign Minister Pachitch of Serbia either have arrived or are on their way here for a resumption of the conferences at the home of Col. Edward M. House, special representative of the United States government, and the sessions at Versailles.

Besides outlining the general program of the congress, the question of meeting the food situation in Germany and Austria probably will be considered.

IS IT POSSIBLE WE WILL GO RIGHT BACK TO IT?

GERMAN WOMEN APPEAL TO MRS. WOODROW WILSON

Wireless Message Addressed to American Women
Sent Out from Nauen

STARVING FOR YEARS

Appeal That Terms of the Armistice Be Modified
—Starvation Imminent

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Nov. 15.—It was said at the White House today that any reply that may be made to the wireless appeal in behalf of the women of Germany addressed to Mrs. Woodrow Wilson for aid in modification of the armistice terms will probably go through the regular diplomatic channels.

Appeals addressed to Mrs. Wilson and Miss Jane Addams on behalf of the women of Germany asking that the terms of the armistice be modified, or they will bring disaster, have been sent out by the German wireless station at Nauen. They were picked up by the military radio station on the Maine coast and transmitted to the war department.

In the appeal to Mrs. Wilson it was stated the women and children of Germany had been "starving for years" and that unless the terms of the armistice are changed they will "die from hunger by the millions."

CONTEST TWO G. O. P. SENATORS

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Nov. 15.—Contest of the election of two Republican senators—Newberry of Michigan and ones of New Hampshire—were forecasted today before the Senate Committee on Elections. Protests against seating both of the above named men on the face of present returns were received by the committee. Action was deferred.

ROCKFORD ELKS SECOND IN STATE

Rockford Elks staged their record initiation Wednesday night when a class of 270 candidates was taken into membership. The addition to the membership list places the Rockford lodge second in the state, only Chicago exceeding it in the total number of names on its roster.

RESERVE MILITIA WILL BE MAINTAINED IN ILL.

Announcement Is Made It
Will Not Be Mustered
Out After Peace

COMPANY F IS A PART

The Illinois Reserve Militia, of which Company F, Sixth Reg. of this city is a part, will not be mustered out when the peace treaty is signed. "The moral effect of having 12,000 men in the Illinois state militia will be useful for several years after the final determination of peace," according to Brig. Gen. LeRoy T. Stewart, commander of the first brigade, comprising Chicago men. "Since no national guard exists in our state, the duty of preserving order falls on us during the reconstruction period," he said.

"Our only duty is to preserve order and our work will be similar to that of the Pennsylvania state constabulary. Our men enlisted for two years. To date they have paid their own expenses and the state has provided guns. We expect the next legislature to pass some laws making our organization permanent."

What is now the Illinois reserve militia is the outgrowth of a voluntary organization started under the guidance of the state council of defense.

FAMILY DEAD; ASPHYXIATION

Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 14.—Charles H. Hill, an arsenal worker, returned to his home here last night to find his wife and two little children, a daughter, aged 3, and a son 3 weeks old, dead, all three having been asphyxiated by gas.

HYDE FUNERAL HERE ON MONDAY

The funeral of Philip G. Hyde, who died in Wallace, Idaho, last Sunday, will be held Monday at 3 p. m. from the home of his aunt, Mrs. Harry Roe, in North Dixon. Mr. Hyde's mother, Mrs. A. B. Hyde, of Chicago, and his brother Harold, and wife, of Grand Rapids, will accompany the remains to Dixon. His wife will be unable to attend as she is very ill from the effects of a recent operation.

JAGGED THROAT WITH HIS KNIFE ON DIXON STREET

James Hayes, Aged 33, Attempted Suicide Near Family Theater

INSANE AFTER SICKNESS

Is Said To Have Received
Treatment at Watertown Once Before

James Hayes, aged 33, an employee of the Grand Detour Plow Co., attempted suicide by cutting his throat with a rusty pocket knife on Peoria ave., between the Family theater and First street at about 8:30 o'clock last night, and narrowly missed puncturing the jugular vein in his insane attempt at his own life.

He was found bleeding profusely from the jagged wounds he had inflicted in his neck, by Officer Whetstein, who took him to the police headquarters and attempted to reach a physician by telephone. Unable to find any surgeon by wire, the officer set out in search for one, and while he was gone Hayes became violent. He screamed, tore at the wound in his throat, kicked savagely at attendants who grappled with him and threw himself like a wild beast. He was finally overpowered and securely fastened, shortly before Drs. Baird and Murphy arrived at the station. They dressed the wounds and the insane sufferer was taken to the county jail.

Has Been in Watertown.

It is reported that the young fellow, who registered for military service at the Sixth precinct polling place, had been a patient at Watertown at one time, and that he now has a sister in that institution. He is just recovering from a severe attack of Spanish influenza, and it is believed his illness brought out the mental disturbance which resulted in his attempt at self-destruction. At the time of his registration he stated his father lived at 360 Ninth street, Sterling.

Pending word from relatives he will be kept at the county jail, where he will be given the best of treatment, and it is probable he will later be arraigned for trial as to his sanity.

SERVING JURORS.

Deputy Sheriff Schoenholz is busy serving petit jurors for the January term. This afternoon he made a trip to Sublette township.

TO REGISTRANTS

The Local Board has the following from the adjutant general at Springfield with respect to the completion of questionnaires in an order dated November 13:
"It will, therefore, be prudent for registrants to whom questionnaires have been mailed to complete and file their questionnaires at once in order that no question may arise as to their delinquency. Boards should receive all questionnaires returned by the registrants of whatever age in order that the registrant's record may be made clear. Questionnaires received from registrants beyond the age of 36 years should simply be filed and recorded but not otherwise acted on."

AMERICAN AIRPLANES HAD RADIO TELEPHONE

Announcement of Great U.
S. Accomplishment Is Made Public Today

TOOK ORAL ORDERS

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Nov. 15.—Squadrons of American airplanes, operating in the air up to the moment the armistice was signed, were maneuvered under vocal directions from the ground that reached the pilots by radio telephone. News of the success of this device has hitherto been kept secret, although there were inklings of it just before hostilities ceased. Knowledge of its success was allowed to be made public by Director Ryan of the Aircraft Production Board today.

"There are some details of the system which cannot be discussed yet," he said, "but the radio service has been worked out in months of actual service. I have, myself, standing on the ground, given orders to men in the air and watched them maneuver accordingly. The transmission is clear, striking through the sound of the motors of the machine. It is the most satisfactory means of communication between airplanes in the air and with observers and officers on the ground."

TROUBLES GROW AT THE HAGUE

By Associated Press Leased Wire
The Hague, Thursday, Nov. 14.—The Dutch government has issued a proclamation urging the people to Mco-operation in the "grave crisis." It says the minority is threatening to seize power, and declares its determination to maintain authority.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
London, Nov. 15.—The threat of the extremists in Holland to force the abdication of Queen Wilhelmina is causing anxiety at The Hague, says a dispatch to the Express.

FAILED TO GIVE ALL OF TERMS

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Amsterdam, Nov. 15.—The Politikan quotes the British military attaché here, Col. Wade, as saying that Germany has omitted announcing six or seven terms of the armistice, including that relating to the allies providing food for the German people.

HUN U-BOAT CREWS STICK

By Associated Press Leased Wire
London, Nov. 15.—The crews of the German submarines at a mass meeting held at Brunstutell, according to a Copenhagen dispatch to the Express, resolved to oppose the revolutionists, and have reinstated all their officers. The vessels now fly the national flag instead of the "red flag."

AMERICAN ARMY MISSION GOING TO HINDENBERG

Officers and Soldiers Leave
Tomorrow For Hun
Great Headquarters

FOCH NOTIFIES HUNS

May Direct Evacuation Of Metz and Strassburg
and Give Huns Food

By Associated Press Leased Wire
London, Nov. 15.—An American military mission, headed by Major General Rhodes, will leave Saturday for German great headquarters at Spa, Marshal Foch announced to the German high command in a wireless message today. The mission will consist of six officers and nineteen soldiers and will travel in nine motor cars. The German high command is asked to give instructions to allow the mission to pass.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Nov. 15.—News of an American military mission, headed by Maj. Gen. Rhodes, commander of the 42nd (Rainbow) Division at last reports, was to leave for German headquarters at Spa, aroused much speculation here. As far as is known the object of the mission has not been made known here.

Direct Evacuation
It is reported, however, as a movement by the allied command to arrange for the German evacuation of the fortresses in Alsace and Lorraine which lie in front of the American lines. These include Metz and Strassburg.

Since previously a definite date had been set by marshal Foch for his entry into those strongholds, it is thought the German methods of carrying out the terms of the armistice regarding such evacuation, will be directed by the American officials.

May Supply Food
It may be, also, that the mission may discuss means of relieving the food situation in Germany with the surplus supplies of the American army in France.

Gen. Pershing's forces are known to have a three months' stock on hand for his forces, which supply is being constantly increased. Sec. Baker said it may be that a part of that reserve will be used to relieve urgent need in enemy territory.

ARMISTICE'S NAVAL TERMS ARE BEING MET

GERMAN DELEGATES WILL MEET
COMMANDER OF BRITISH FLEET THIS AFTERNOON

By Associated Press Leased Wire
London, Nov. 15.—The German light cruiser Koenigsberg, which is carrying German naval delegates to arrange for carrying out the naval terms of the armistice, it is understood will be met this afternoon by German warships and escorted to a point at sea where the German delegates may meet Admiral Beatty, Beatty, commander of the British Great fleet.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Paris, Nov. 15.—The naval terms of the German and Austrian armistices are being carried out rapidly, it was announced today. Admiral Rodman will be the American representative at a meeting with German naval delegates at some British port tomorrow.

MAY CONTINUE IN ARMY SCHOOL

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Nov. 15.—Students in officers' training schools may be discharged from the army immediately if they so desire, it was announced today. If they elect to continue work, however, they will be commissioned in the Reserve Officers' list upon graduation and will be placed on the inactive list.

ORTGIESEN IS GIVEN DISCHARGE

J. B. Ortgiesen yesterday received word from the Military Training Camps Association headquarters in Chicago that under orders received from Washington, all men who had applied for entrance to any of the camps in the country and who had not yet entered those camps were discharged. Consequently his hope that he would receive his call this week was frustrated.

SOLDIERS' LETTERS

Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Shafer received the following letter on November 11th from their son, Roy Shafer, who is in France:

Somewhere in France,
Oct. 16, 1918.

My Dear Folks:

I have a little time to myself now and will drop you a few lines to let you know that we arrived overseas safe and sound, that I am well and all O. K. We surely had a wonderful trip coming over everything went fine. I will tell you all about it when I get home, as you know we are not allowed to write anything like that, just certain things, as some one might get hold of something that they ought not to have and turn it over to the enemy.

Things are very different here in this country to what they are in the States. They seem to be far behind us in most everything and they have the oddest railroads. I took quite a long trip on one of them and it surely was a treat to see them work. We rode in box cars the most of the time. They are little 4-wheel affairs and are about 10 or 12 feet long and carry about 8 tons to a car. They don't have any air brakes on the freight trains but about every 7 or 8 cars there is a car with a little cab on it and a man sits up there and sets a hand brake when they want to stop. You could set about four cars in one of ours and then still have room. Their engines are also very different from ours that is, much smaller. Some of them have a cab and some don't. The engineer sits on the left hand side of them, but they make some good time on these roads at that. There is a fellow in my company that is a railroad man and we are pretty good friends. We had quite a time figuring out the different signals and yards, etc.

Well, I guess I will change the subject or you will be getting tired. I got a letter from you folks on the 15th of this month; it was sent to Camp Mills and was dated Sept. 6, and I got one from my landlady at the same time. I surely was glad to get them as it was the first mail I have received since I have been here, but you know it takes quite a while for it to get to us as it has a long way to go before it reaches us. We are mighty glad to get news from home, no matter how old it is, and we are always there when the mail comes in. Pa wrote that you had made 14 gallons of sauer kraut. I surely would like to sit down to a good mess of it. I surely would enjoy it. I may get some of it yet the way things are beginning to look. I tell you our boys are doing some mighty fine work here lately. They are backing the Germans up now. I guess they are beginning to realize they are up against a snag when they started fighting with Uncle Sam.

I would be glad to have a pair of nice warm socks. They would be fine and I would appreciate them very much, but I don't want to put you to any extra trouble. They would be mighty nice for this winter for I expect it gets pretty cold here in the winter on account of it being so damp. It has rained here most every day since we have been here. All you have to do to make it rain here is to poke a stick up in the air and pull it out and it will start raining right away. Just a few minutes ago the sun was shining and now it is raining as hard as ever. It is a fright sometimes.

I got back from the hospital on the 14th. I was laid up with the Spanish influenza. It acts something like the grip. Of course I have a little touch of the grip every fall, only I had it a little harder this time than usual, but we certainly had fine care there. You know we have the best doctors in the world in the army, so I had the very best of care. I am feeling fine now, only a little weak, but I will be all right in a day or so. It seems to be a very common disease here and is not so dangerous as long as a fellow takes care of himself. I am doing fine now, eat like a horse and am as fat as ever. It seems that I can scarcely get enough to eat. I guess it is something in the air that does it for they surely feed us fine.

I wrote to Aunt Ada when I was at Camp Mills but I never heard from her. I don't believe she ever got it or she would have answered, and I have lost her address so if you will please send it to me when you write I will write her again. I am always glad to hear from her and don't want her to think I was not man enough to answer her, as I surely think a lot of Aunt Ada. She has always been good to me.

I will have to tell you about the fine present I got from my landlady. You know when I left I didn't bring a watch with me as I didn't think we were allowed to carry one, but I found out we could and I missed mine so much that I wrote and asked her to send the 17 Elgin that you gave me when I was 21 years old. But in place of that she sent me a fine wrist watch. It surely is a dandy and I am very proud of it. I felt like a little sissy when I first put it on, but I am getting used to it now. Those people surely think a lot of me. It was just like being at home and I certainly miss them a lot. In most every letter I get from them they want me to hurry and get back home again, so I can be with them.

I got a letter from the man I told you had the 5 trucks while I was at Camp Mills and he told me that he had a job open for me driving a truck at $30 a week just as soon as I was willing to come and take it, so I will be O. K. for a job any way.

Well, dear ones, I guess I will have to close for this time as I have about run out of things to write, but I want to get a nice, big, fat letter from you both soon as I don't get much mail. It makes a fellow feel kind of blue when everybody gets mail and he don't get any. It may be a silly notion but that is the way it works on me, anyway. I guess I will be a kid all my life; it looks like it, don't it. Write anything, I don't care what, just so it is something. These few lines leave me all right or it will be by the time it reaches you and I hope it finds you both in the best of health.

With love to all I will say good-bye for this time, hoping to hear from you both soon. I remain as ever,
Yours,
ROY.

Acid-Stomach Makes Millions Weak and Miserable

For years dentists have been telling us that it's acid mouth that ruins the teeth, yet this acid that is powerful enough to eat through the hardest bone enamel of the teeth and decay them, is tasteless. Its presence can be detected only by chemical tests. No chemical test is needed to tell you that you have acid-stomach. Indigestion, belching, heartburn, sour etc. much, food-repeating, flat miscible puffed up feeling after eating, intestinal pains, headaches, etc. These are all Nature's warning to you. They are sure signs of superacidity. Acid-stomach prevents proper digestion and assimilation, thus causing the blood to become thin and impoverished as a result of which people become sallow-skinned, emaciated, sick and bad looking. Acid-stomach causes stomach and intestinal fermentation, producing poisons and toxins which, absorbed into the blood and carried throughout the system, cause auto-intoxication, insomnia, nervousness, irritability, mental depression, melancholia, dizziness, vertigo and other troubles, a valvular heart trouble and heart failure. Acid-stomach causes irritation all along the intestinal tract—irritation so severe and aggravating as to frequently result in catarrh and even cancer of the stomach.

What chance, then, has anyone for robust health, happiness or success if this acid-stomach is allowed to tear down and use up day after day your strength and vitality faster than you can get it out of food you eat. Life is indeed dark and dreary for a person with acid-stomach. You crave health, strength, the power and will to think and act—don't you? You want to feel full of pep and energy, fine and fit, always eager for work or pleasure. Then you must rid your stomach of its excess acid. You can start doing it right now. A wonderful modern medicine has made it possible to literally wipe out the excess acid. This remedy is called EATONIC. It is made in pleasant-tasting tablets and you take them just like a bit of candy. And, my, how good EATONIC makes you feel! It banishes acid-stomach miseries like magic! Makes the stomach cool, sweet and strong. Helps you to get full strength out of your food so that, in turn, your body and brain are vigorous, alert and keen. EATONIC contains no harmful drugs. Prepared for the most delicate stomach and is fully guaranteed. Your druggist will let you have a big box of Eatonic Tablets with the understanding you use them for one week, then if you are not satisfied, tell him so and he will at once hand you back your 50c.

VISITED IN INDIANA—

Mr. and Mrs. John Tripper have returned from a visit in Indiana at Peru, Dunker Hill, and Santa Fe, with the former's sisters.

WITH PALMYRA FRIENDS—

Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Watson and E. G. Graves, of Savanna, Ill., have returned to their homes after spending a few days as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sills of Palmyra.

ST. JAMES' MISSIONARY—

Mrs. Frank Royster was hostess yesterday to the members of the St. James Missionary society. A goodly number were present, enjoying at noon a sumptuous dinner, which was also participated in by twenty men of the congregation of the church who are assisting in hauling material for the repair of the basement of the church. At two o'clock in the afternoon an interesting program was rendered, opening with the song, "God is Love," and the devotional service, which was conducted by Mrs. S. A. Zimbeck. The lesson relating to Thanksgiving, was developed by Mrs. Emma Geisler, the president. The secretary's report was heard, the Thanksgiving offering collected, and the meeting closed by repeating the Lord's Prayer. Knitting and sewing for the Belgian refugees, occupied the members both preceding and following the program. The December meeting will be held at the parsonage, 609 Galena avenue.

ST. ANN'S GUILD—

St. Ann's Guild held a meeting in the guild rooms of St. Luke's yesterday afternoon, the members devoting the time to the making of articles for the Christmas sale. This was the first meeting after the epidemic.

HONORED MEMBERS—

The Royal Neighbor lodge held a attended meeting last evening. Two of the members, Mrs. Celia Jones and Mrs. George Hefley, were celebrating their birthdays yesterday. The members had prepared a little surprise by serving refreshments of ice cream and wafers and enjoying a social hour in their honor. The evening was one of especial pleasure to all.

W. C. O. E. MEETING—

Members of the Woman's Catholic Order of Foresters held the first meeting since the lifting of the epidemic ban last evening in K. C. hall. The attendance was good and the regular business was transacted.

RETURNED HOME—

Mrs. John Shoemaker and son, Stanley, left today for their home at Marshalltown, Ia., after visiting with relatives and friends here, including Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Graves. Mrs. Shoemaker was before her marriage Miss Ada Dockery of this city.

GRACE AID MET—

An afternoon in piecing quilt blocks was spent yesterday at the Grace Evangelical church by the members of the Aid Society, seventeen of whom were present. Plans were laid for a ten-cent tea to be held the latter part of November or the first of December.

ROSES ABLOOM NOW—

Rosier by the armfuls, writes a relative to Mrs. M. D. Grimes, who lives in New Jersey. Just think of it at this time of year. The coal miners ought to be able to get ahead of the demands this year.

SNADINI CLUB ENTERTAINED—

Mrs. Ernest Wernick entertained with a chicken dinner yesterday the members of the Snadini club. Every member was present and spent a delightful day. In the morning there was knitting, and, after the dinner with its good chicken and all the accompanying good things, cards furnished the diversion. Chrysanthemums decorated the table and handsome potted plants were tastefully disposed about the house.

RUTH AND BRIAN QUARREL.

CHAPTER XCV

Ruth had seen Brian's smile and interpreted it rightly. Oh, why had she accepted her employer's offer? It gave Brian reason to object to any questions she might ask. She knew his jealous nature well enough by this time to be aware that he would take full advantage of her action.

Neither said anything until they were inside the apartment. Then Ruth spoke:
"I came home last night, Brian. I wanted to surprise you, but—"
"You haven't surprised me a bit!" he interrupted her in a tone that cut her like a knife. "I have known for a long time that Mandel was in love with you in fact I have been warned that he would take you from me. For all I know, he has."

"Oh, Brian!" It was monstrous that he should talk so to her. "I felt sick because I was up all night worrying about you, and he offered to send me home. I let him because I felt so weak and faint."

"Yes."

That was all! Just "yes." Ruth bit her lip until it bled, to keep back the angry retort. Then, unable to control herself longer, she asked abruptly:

"Where were you last night, Brian?"

Deliberately Brian took off his coat, and hung it up. Then he looked steadily at her as he replied:
"You have no right to question me. You go away and leave me alone. You ride in another man's car. You do as you please, so do I. If dinner is ready, suppose we eat. I have an engagement."

Ruth was amazed. Was this man, speaking to her like this, her Brian—the man who loved her, and whom she loved? He had put her in the wrong, so making it impossible for her to say anything as long as he took that attitude toward her. So she followed him to the table trembling and aching to have a good cry.

After Rachel left the room she tried again:

"I found the blotter with which you blotted your note—your note to Mollie King," she had mentioned the name on impulse but his quick flush, his look of guilt, his muttered oath, showed plainly that she was right in her surmise.

"Well!" He was determined to talk in monosyllables.

"Don't you think that after finding that, you owe me some explanation of where you were last night?"

"No, I don't! you are in love with that and he with you! I owe you nothing! But I do owe Mollie something, and I cannot let her rest under your imputation. She is fair and above-board, even if you—my wife—are not. I was with a bunch of Canadian officers who are going over seas. It was almost morning when we stopped talking and I banked in with one of them. If you would deign to telegraph me when you are intending to favor me with your presence, perhaps I would be here to welcome you," the last sneeringly. Then, "You probably telegraphed and."

This time it was Ruth who flushed guiltily. She had wired Mandel. "I thought so," Brian said in a fierce tone. He was trying hard to keep his temper.

"And you weren't with Mollie King last night, in spite of that note?" Ruth asked, her lip quivering.

"Yes, I was with her. We had dinner together, and a jolly little dinner it was, too. There are women who appreciate my society, you see, even if you do not. But I left Miss King at nine o'clock and went with the Canuks. I tell you this because of Mollie not to please you."

He arose from the table, put on his hat and left the house. Ruth had tried to speak, tried to call him back, but she could not. Her tears flowed fast as she threw herself on to her bed and sobbed out her misery.

He never had been exactly as he had that night. That sarcasm was new to him, also the bravado with which he confessed to having been with Mollie King. Surely she hadn't deserved to be treated as she had been. She knew he had been awfully angry when he saw her in Mandel's car that he had been jealous, too. But even that was no excuse for the way he had talked. She had explained that she was ill, and that was the reason Mandel had sent her home.

Then she had flushed when he accused her of wiring Mandel. Altho she had not answered him, she was sure Brian was satisfied he had guessed right. Oh, it was all such a muddle! And now he had gone out again and left her. She wondered if he were with Mollie again. Perhaps he had gone to her for sympathy.

He always acted abused, childishly so, when anything went wrong between them.

Ruth wished she had not come home. That she had remained away the entire time she had planned. Had she done so, Brian would have expected her, and they would both have been saved all this. Then came another thought: If Brian were so careful of Mollie that he would not allow her to be placed in a false light, he must be terribly fond of her. He had humbled his pride to explain where he had been, rather than have Mollie suspected of an indiscretion.

WITH MRS. GULLION—

Members of the Methodist Home Missionary society enjoyed yesterday the charming hospitality of Mrs. T. J. Gullion in the regular monthly meeting.

In accordance with the request coming from the officers of the National Home Missionary society, the members plan to make every effort to further the work of Home Missions the coming year and to increase the membership of the society.

Mrs. P. L. Pope read the paper of the afternoon, handling in a masterly manner the topic, "With City Industries," relating to the questions arising from woman and child labor. Many questions for discussion were developed—the servant girl and her mistress, the eight-hour labor law for women, the question of morals in relation to the young people of the big cities. Mrs. E. E. Wingert read charmingly the poem written by Wm. Vaughn Moody, Gloucester Moors. Miss Jennie Laing read an article on "Missions, a National Issue," showing that the term "foreigner" is obsolete in America, as well as the phrase "non-English speaking American citizens." For forty years Home Mission work has revolved about the immigrant, in order to make of him a true American citizen, and now the challenge comes to the church of Christ to see that the work continues steadfast and with greater zeal during the reconstruction.

From Nov. 17-24 is national Home Mission week. On Sunday, Nov. 24, the annual thank-offering service will be held at the church with the pastor, Rev. E. C. Lumsden, delivering the sermon. The women of the society will have entire charge of the service.

In compliance with the government request for food conservation, the committee of the afternoon served no refreshments, but instead gave the sum they would have expended to some special war work of the society. The ladies of the committee who had the delightful afternoon program in charge were Mrs. Soper, Mrs. John Sterling, Mrs. H. H. Hagen, Mrs. Joseph Beach and Mrs. E. E. Wingert.

The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. J. Worsley.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach trouble.

If you have a bad taste in your mouth, tongue coated, appetite poor, lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, troubled with undigested foods, you should take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief, so you can eat what you like.

At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

NO DISCHARGE FROM
ARMY FOR SOME TIME

Department to Hold Men
Who Have No Dependents, Says Secretary

FOR DEMOBILIZATION

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—The war department today clamped down the lid on immediate discharge of officers and enlisted men in the U. S. army, unless the discharge of the individual is required by reason of financial distress of his dependents.

A general order was sent by Secretary of War Baker to the adjutant general directing that no discharges be authorized of officers and men in this country until the war department has adopted a general demobilization policy, which is now under consideration.

Discharges of men in the overseas forces are to be approved personally by Gen. Pershing before the adjutant general can issue the necessary certificate of discharge, Secretary Baker's order declared.

Refusal to discharge men in the service was due, it was explained at the adjutant general's office, to uncertainty of world developments. The fact that the mustering out of men in this country would enable them to return to civil occupations immediately and have the effect of discrimination against the men in France, also was said to be an additional reason for the continuance in the service of men in American camps until the demobilization order is promulgated.

ARRANGING FOR PEACE CONFERENCE; WILL BE HELD AT VERSAILLES

Urge Versailles for Conference.
The general feeling of the associated governments is that Versailles—Paris—is the most convenient place to hold the peace conference, and if this were decided upon it also would serve as a recognition of the paramount position of France in the war.

In addition to these considerations there are certain practical ones of telegraph and cable facilities and easy communication with the capital, as well as more ample living accommodations than those in the smaller Holland and Switzerland cities.

Agents of the various allied countries already are seeking large houses in Paris for their delegations. The American representation will move from the small residence which Col. House and his staff now occupy to one much larger.

Name U. S. Naval Envoys.
Rear Admiral S. S. Robison has been appointed American member of the naval commission to arrange for the execution of the naval terms of the German armistice.

Rear Admiral Bullard has been appointed American representative to see to the carrying out of the naval terms of the Austrian armistice. He is now at Pola, the great naval base in the Adriatic, and has telegraphed Admiral William S. Benson, American chief of naval operations, that the execution of the naval terms of the armistice are proceeding satisfactorily.

NURSES PASS STATE EXAMS

Graduate nurses of the Dixon hospital, class of 1918, have all passed the state board examination and are now registered nurses. This is the first time in the history of the school that the nurses in a class have all passed. Those in the class are the Misses Margaret McCulloch, Edna Zarger, Ruth McGinnis and Edna Johnson.

DAUGHTERS IMPROVE.
The three daughters of Judge Robert H. Scott, who have been ill with the Spanish influenza, are gaining strength daily. They are now able to be up and about the house.

RESIGNED POSITION.
Ernest Suggett has resigned his position as night baggageman at the Northwestern, in which place he has been succeeded by Earle Wilbur.

LADIES' GLEE CLUB IN MEET

The members of the South Side High School Girls' Glee club held a meeting Wednesday evening, perfected an organization and made plans for training several evenings each week. The glee club is making an effort to make much improvement over last year.

HOME FROM HOSPITAL.
Guy Miller, who is at the local hospital, will be able to return to his home next Sunday.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL.
Herbert Warner of First street was taken to the hospital yesterday for treatment for anemia.

OBITUARY

HELEN LILLIAN RANDALL.
Helen Lillian Randall, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Randall, was born in Dixon, Dec. 29, 1908, and died Nov. 11, 1918, aged 9 years, 10 months and 18 days.

Helen was a bright cheerful child, always smiling and happy. Though a mere child she was always willing and trying to help others.

Besides her parents she leaves to mourn her loss two sisters, Dorothy Marie and Alice Lucille, and two brothers, Charles William and Otto LeRoy and a host of relatives and friends. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the entire vicinity.

In Memoriam.
I cannot say, I will not say
That she is dead. She is just away.
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand
She has wandered into an unknown land,
And left us dreaming; how very fair
It needs must be, since she lingers there.
And you, O you, who the wildest yearn
For the old time step and glad return,
Think of her as faring on, as dear
In the love of There, as the love of Here;
Mild and gentle as she was brave—
When the sweetest love of her life she gave
To simple things; where the violets grew
Blue as the eyes they were likened to;
The touch of her hands have strayed
As reverently as her lips have prayed,
When the little brown thrush that harshly chirred,
Was dear to her as the mocking bird,
And she pined as much as a man in pain
A writhing honey-bee wet with rain.
Think of her still the same, I say,
She is not dead—she is just away.

SIGNIFICANT WORD IS SENT TO HUN OFFICERS

French High Command Insists on Huns Giving Up War Material

HUNS OUT OF HAND

London, Nov. 14.—(British Wireless Service.) A significant message from the allied high command to the German high command has been sent out by the French government wireless stations. It reads:

"The commanders of the German armies continue to propose to the commanders of the allied armies facing them that they should immediately hand over their war materials and prisoners to the allies?"

(The German soldiers in various sections of the occupied territory have apparently been getting out of hand. In some places they have attacked their commanders and raised the red flag of revolt.)

BOY IS BETTER.
The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Randall is reported to be improving.

ANOTHER GRADE OVER.
The pupils of the 8th grade of the south side high school, went over the top in the Junior Red Cross work, Thursday afternoon.

CARS OFF TRACK.
Several of the steel mail cars of Northwestern mail train No. 15, west bound, left the tracks at Rochelle yesterday, but fortunately did not tip over. The accident delay the train considerably.

CHAPTER V.

Methods of M. Lefevre.

On the day following the arrival of the Richelieu, Mr. Germaine, managing director of the Transatlantic Line, sat in his private office in lower Broadway, smoking his after-breakfast cigar.

He had pressed a button a few minutes before, and presently there came into the room a tall, heavily built young man, whose clear eyes and ruddy complexion spoke of an active outdoor life.

"Sit down, Barnes," said Mr. Germaine, in a rather patronizing voice. "I called you in to speak of the sad affair of the Richelieu's purser, Mr. Vernon. As our chief detective, I thought that possibly you might have something of interest to tell us about the matter."

"I have given it some thought," remarked Barnes noncommittally. "And no doubt you have made some investigations aboard the vessel?"

"Yes. There was not much to find out. Poor Vernon fell into the hatchway—that's clear enough. Why he had Mr. Morris's package in his pocket I can't say. If you want my opinion, however, I would venture the suggestion that he was walking in his sleep. People in that state do queer things. It is highly probable that, while in a somnambulistic state, he opened the safe, took out the package, walked to the forward deck, and fell into the hold. That's about all there is to it."

"You don't think, then, that we need make any further investigations?"

"What for? The coroner has declared the case an accident. We are not out anything, Mr. Morris got his package. I should say that the best thing to do was to let the matter drop."

Mr. Germaine puffed meditatively at his cigar for some moments in silence. "Mr. Morris, it seems," he said at length, "is not satisfied. He has telephoned me this morning, saying that he has evidence that a crime has been committed. He insists upon an investigation. I am expecting him here at any moment."

"I don't see how I could take up the matter, Mr. Germaine. You know I'm kept pretty busy at the pier."

"I know. I had not thought of having you take it up. As a matter of fact, I asked one of the passengers who arrived on the Richelieu—M. Lefevre—to do so. He is a very great expert in criminal matters—the prefect of police of Paris, as a matter of fact. No doubt you have heard of him."

Mr. Barnes's eyes opened. "Lefevre!" he exclaimed. "Well, I should say I had. No better man in the world. But I shouldn't think he would bother himself with an affair of such slight importance."

"Very likely not. He would not agree yesterday, and this morning he is to come in and give me his answer." "You'd be mighty lucky to get him, Mr. Germaine, if, as Mr. Morris says, there is more to this thing than appears on the surface."

"Mr. Morris is urging me to place the matter in the hands of Mr. Richard Duvall."

Barnes's face was a study. "Duvall!" he exclaimed contemptuously. "Why, he's not to be mentioned in the same breath with Lefevre."

"You know him, then?" asked Mr. Germaine, surprised. "Oh, yes! Known him for years. He had an office here in town before he moved down South. I thought he had given up detective work."

"Then you don't think much of his abilities?"

"Duvall's well enough. Bright fellow, of course; but too much of a theorist in my way of thinking. The 'kid-glove detective,' we used to call him. I've been on a number of cases with him—you know he handled those international bond-forgery frauds for the government. Pays entirely too much attention to detail. Builds up a whole case on a burned match or a half-smoked cigar. Guesswork, I call it. I believe in going after your man with a gun and let him do his explaining after he's behind the bars. I'll bet it's him that's got Mr. Morris started. Well, Mr. Germaine, you know your own business, of course; but my advice would be, if you bother with the affair any further, let Lefevre handle it. He can make circles around Duvall when it comes to work of this sort, believe me."

"Thank you, Barnes, for your advice; whether we shall go any further depends entirely on what Mr. Morris has to say. If his story seems reasonable, we shall investigate it."

As he spoke, the banker was announced. He entered the room, shook hands with Mr. Germaine, acknowledged the introduction to Barnes, then proceeded to tell them in a few concise words the result of the investigations that he, with Duvall and M. Lefevre, had made the previous afternoon.

original one.

"I tell you, Mr. Germaine," he said in conclusion, "there has been a murder committed on board your vessel, and as a result an innocent girl has been grossly defrauded. I, as a party to the affair, feel a moral responsibility to investigate the matter to the full. I trust you will place the matter in competent hands at once and vindicate both your company and myself."

"After what you tell me, Mr. Morris, I shall most certainly do so."

"You could not do better than engage that young fellow, Duvall."

Mr. Germaine waved the suggestion aside with his cigar. "Entirely too much of a theorist, Mr. Morris. We want a practical man—a man accustomed to such cases. I only hope that M. Lefevre will consent to serve us. Duvall is all right in his way, but Lefevre is a man in a million. He is coming here this morning. If he takes up the case I shall feel that everything will be done to clear it up."

As he concluded a boy arrived with the intelligence that M. Lefevre was outside.

"Show him in!" cried Mr. Germaine eagerly. "Show him in at once!"

M. Lefevre came into the room immaculately dressed, a boutonniere in the lapel of his coat, and his gray mustache waxed to needle-points. He shook hands with Mr. Morris and Mr. Germaine, bowed to Barnes, then sat down and began to remove his yellow chamois gloves. "Mr. Germaine," he announced before the latter could speak, "I have decided to undertake your case."

"Good!" The managing director beamed. "I am delighted to hear it, monsieur. Now I know that it will be cleared up within a very few days."

"I am not so sure of that, my dear sir. Mr. Morris has, I believe, informed you of the events of yesterday afternoon?"

"Yes."

"Then, no doubt, you realize that a rather complex situation confronts us. However, I shall do my best to unravel it. If for no other reasons, I should be glad by the means of seeing justice done to Mlle. Mercier, who is of my own country."

"Did you receive at your hotel the cablegram that came for you yesterday afternoon?"

"Yes. Many thanks for your kindness in delivering it to me. It informed me that the man Reinhardt, who was killed at the Hotel Rochambeau yesterday, was the physician who attended Mercier during his last illness."

"Strange that I did not recognize him," said Morris.

"Scarcely. You saw him but once, and probably paid no particular attention to him. Then, too, he wore a small red beard at that time, which he afterward shaved off."

"Clearly there has been a plot against this young Mercier girl," Mr. Germaine remarked.

"Beyond question. And it is also clear that she has been robbed of something of great value. To find out what it is, and restore it to her, is the task before me." The prefect took a match from Mr. Germaine's desk and relit his cigar. "I believe that is all I have to say at present."

"Mr. Barnes," said the managing director, indicating his companion, "is the chief detective of our line. We are obliged to employ several in and about the piers, to guard our property. Any assistance that he can give you is yours. He is at your service."

"Only too glad," murmured Barnes, much flattered.

M. Lefevre regarded Barnes with a curious smile, and began to draw on his gloves. "I am well acquainted with M. Barnes," he remarked. "By reputation, at least. If I am not mistaken, he was shot through the shoulder during the longshoremen's strike last winter. I believe also that he has a pair of anchors tattooed in blue upon his left arm, near the elbow. Am I right, M. Barnes?"

The detective looked at M. Lefevre with bulging eyes. He instinctively gripped his left forearm. "Yes," he stammered, "you are, but how the devil—I beg your pardon—but how you happen to know that, beats me."

"A mere trifle, my friend," replied the prefect carelessly. "We have an unusually complete system in my office in Paris. No doubt you would be even more surprised were I to inform you that you have three children, and that your salary is thirty dollars a week."

Barnes edged back in his chair as though he regarded the prefect's intimate knowledge of himself and his affairs as something supernatural.

Lefevre smiled pleasantly, then turned to Mr. Morris and Mr. Germaine, who had been regarding him with looks of astonishment. "I think I had better start out at once, gentlemen," he said. "There is no time to be lost. The police will also be in search of this fellow on account of the murder of Reinhardt. I should be sorry to have them forestall me."

"What evidence have they to work on?" asked Germaine.

"None, practically. They have not even a description of the man Reinhardt as he appeared without his false beard. You will remember that neither Mr. Morris, Mr. Duvall, myself, nor the clerk at the Rochambeau saw him when he left the place. He apparently got away quite unobserved."

"But Mrs. Duvall saw him, I understand, and can describe his appearance accurately."

"Assuredly. In fact, she has already done so, although not to the police. I have so far reserved that bit of information for my own use. I will advise you promptly, gentlemen, of any developments of importance. Good morning." He turned to Barnes. "Good morning, M. Barnes. If I require your assistance, I shall let you know. Pardon me if I suggest that your amethyst scarf-pin—the one your wife gave you—is on the point of falling to the floor." He waved his hand pleasantly to the three men and left the room.

"Now, how the devil did he know that the pin was given to me by my wife?" gasped Barnes vacantly, as he adjusted it to his necktie.

The others volunteered no explanations. They, too, were overcome with astonishment. "M. Lefevre is a remarkable man," said Mr. Germaine. "I am surprised that one of his position and attainments should bother himself with a trifling matter of this sort. I was fully prepared for a refusal. A very remarkable man, indeed. Richard Duvall is a child compared to him. I consider that we are extremely fortunate to have the matter in such unusually competent hands."

The prefect entered the automobile which stood at the entrance of the building, a broad smile upon his genial face. In the waiting machine was Grace Duvall.

M. Lefevre's account of his interview with the managing director of the Transatlantic Line, and of his conversation with Barnes, seemed to cause her much amusement. At its conclusion she threw herself back in her seat and burst out laughing.

"You are a remarkable man, M. Lefevre," she said. "Richard is a mere amateur beside you."

Upon their arrival at the hotel the prefect was informed that Captain Wood, of the New York detective force, wished to see him. M. Lefevre received him in the parlor of his suite. He was a keen-looking, heavily built man, slightly passed middle age, with a reddish-brown mustache.

"What can I do for you, monsieur?" the prefect inquired affably. "You have, perhaps, found this man Hartmann, the perpetrator of this brutal outrage?"

"No," the captain replied, "we haven't got him yet. As a matter of fact, we can't just figure this thing out. You, I am informed by the clerk at the hotel, examined the man's room shortly after his death. Who was the man that was murdered at the Hotel Rochambeau, and why was he killed? That's the first thing to determine. At present we can see no motive but robbery. His watch and money were missing."

"To your first question, monsieur, I will tell you this. The man was a Belgian, a physician practicing among the poorest classes in Paris. His name was Victor Reinhardt. He formerly wore a pointed red beard, but recently shaved it off. You, of course, know that he arrived here yesterday, with his companion, on the Richelieu."

"Yes. We know that. So he was a doctor, eh? And who was his companion, the fellow with the rheumatism?"

"That I am unable to tell you."

"Have you any idea of the motive for the crime?"

"Yes. It is my opinion that Hartmann killed his companion in a quarrel over a franc which they had jointly stolen."

"A franc? You mean a one-franc piece?"

"Exactly."

The captain gazed curiously at his companion. "A one-franc piece worth twenty cents! Impossible."

Lefevre shrugged his shoulders. "That is my opinion, monsieur. Of course I may be wrong."

"But there's no sense to it. What particular value did this coin have? Was it rare—valuable?"

"Not by any means rare. Here, in fact, is one precisely like it." The prefect drew from his pocket the coin which Mr. Morris had picked up in the room at the Hotel Rochambeau and handed it to his companion.

The captain examined it with great care, then handed it back. "Well, you may be right," he remarked helplessly, "but as for me, I can't make head or tail of the thing. There must be something back of it."

"Undoubtedly. I wish I could assist you further, but unfortunately I do not know myself just what the explanation of the affair is. Doubtless we shall find out later. You have not found any traces whatever of the murderer?"

"None. Seems to have disappeared completely."

"Well, captain, I wish you the best of success. If I can be of any service to you at any time, command me. Meanwhile I would suggest that you do not waste any time searching for a black-bearded man with the rheumatism."

The captain opened his eyes in astonishment. "We were informed by the clerk at the Hotel Rochambeau, as well as by the officers of the steamer, that Reinhardt's companion was an elderly man with a black beard, so rheumatic that he was scarcely able to walk."

"Nevertheless, I think that you will find that the information I have just given you is correct."

The captain seemed by no means convinced. "Are you also engaged upon the case, M. Lefevre?" he asked.

"I have been asked by the officials of the steamship company to render them any assistance that I can. You can well understand that as prefect of the police of the city of Paris I do not usually concern myself with matters of so trivial a nature. I am sure, M. Wood, that you will so soon succeed in placing under arrest the guilty person that any assistance from me will be quite needless. As a matter of fact, I have interested myself in the affair largely as a favor to my friend Mr. Richard Duvall. You may, perhaps, know him."

"Duvall! Oh, yes. I've met him. Cleyer chap, in a way. Rather theoretical, to my way of thinking, but then I'm a practical man myself. Brought up in the old school." He smiled rather complacently.

"Ah, yes. You began as a roundsman, or was it a patrolman, some six years ago, did you not? Took quite an important part in the suppression of the Black Hand outrages last year. I have heard of you."

The captain seemed both pleased and astonished that his record should be so well known even in far-away Paris. "You have a wonderful system in your country," he remarked as he left. "Astounding."

Lefevre smiled as the man went out. Then he went into his bedroom and began to change his clothes.

Some half an hour later there emerged a studious-looking Frenchman, with grayish hair, spectacles, and a carefully black mustache. He carried a small satchel, and had what appeared to be a roll of music under one arm.

Tired Nervous Mothers

Should Profit by the Experience of These Two Women

Buffalo, N. Y.—"I am the mother of four children, and for nearly three years I suffered from a female trouble with pains in my back and side, and a general weakness. I had professional attendance most of that time but did not seem to get well. As a last resort I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which I had seen advertised in the newspapers, and in two weeks noticed a marked improvement. I continued its use and am now free from pain and able to do all my household work."—Mrs. B. B. ZIELINSKA, 202 Weiss Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Portland, Ind.—"I had a displacement and suffered so badly from it at times I could not be on my feet at all. I was all run down and so weak I could not do my household work, was nervous and could not lie down at night. I took treatments from a physician but they did not help me. My Aunt recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I tried it and now I am strong and well again and do my own work and I give Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound the credit."—Mrs. JOSEPHINE KIMBLE, 335 West Race Street, Portland, Ind.

FOR STUBBORN COUGHS AND COLDS

Dr. King's New Discovery has a fifty year record behind it

It built its reputation on its production of positive results, on its sureness in relieving the throat irritation of colds, coughs, grippe and bronchial attacks. "Dr. King's New Discovery? Why, my folks wouldn't use anything else!" That's the general nation-wide esteem in which this well-known remedy is held. Its action is prompt, its taste pleasant, its relief gratifying. Half a century of cold and cough checking. All druggists. 60c and $1.20.

Bowels Out of Kilter? That's nature calling for relief. Assist her in her daily duties with Dr. King's New Life Pills. Not a purgative in the usual dose, but a mild, effective, corrective, laxative that teases the bowels into action. 25c.

SUNNYSIDE

Mr. and Mrs. John Hemmer, of Chicago, visited their farm last week.

L. E. Hartzell and Jacob Smith were Dixon callers Saturday afternoon.

R. A. Wright visited Tuesday afternoon with his niece, Mrs. Harry Marr, and son of Giltner, Neb., who are visiting with Lee county friends and relatives.

A valuable corn crib on Elmer Kline's farm four miles west of Franklin Grove was destroyed by fire last night and with it 2500 bushels of corn and 1600 bushels of oats were burned.

The Hillside school was re-opened Monday with Miss Ruth Scheffler as teacher.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson and family moved back to Dixon Tuesday.

Herman Haenitsh who has been on the dock list, is well again.

DECIDE YOURSELF

The Opportunity Is Here, Backed by Dixon Testimony.

Don't take our word for it. Don't depend on a stranger's statement. Read Dixon endorsement.

Read the statements of Dixon citizens.

And decide for yourself. Here is one case of it. P. H. Kenzler, proprietor painting and decorating establishment, 722 S. Dement St., Dixon, says: "About five years ago I had a bad attack of kidney complaint. I was laid up for three weeks and couldn't do a bit of work. I had to hobble about with a stick, my back was so sore and lame. When in bed I had to be propped up with pillows. My work as a painter and inhaling the fumes from the paint, is what I blame for my kidney trouble. I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Campbell & Son's Drug Store and used them. It was only a couple of days before I was back at work again." 60c. at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Finicky Woman.
"What boat did you come back on?"
"The Mary Ann. It caused me a lot of trouble, too."
"In what way?"
"I had the dickens of a time convincing my wife that because the ship had a plebeian name like Mary Ann was no sign that it was that kind of a vessel."

HABITS TO COSTUMES.

My wife has a habit of spending money before she gets it.

Mine is worse: she spends it before I get it myself.

Figuratively Speaking.
"I wouldn't let you hold her hand, eh?"
"She gave me to understand that some other fellow held an option on it."
"Did she have on an engagement ring?"
"No."
"In a case like that the claim ought to be staked out."

On the Carpet.
"Don't you think a congressman ought to have a longer term than two years?"
"I have sometimes thought so, but there seems to be no great clamor for a change. So I infer that most people consider two years long enough to let a congressman go without an accounting."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Last Ditch.
"You'll have to give up drinking on account of your liver," said the doctor. "And I would advise you to stop smoking because of your eyes and your heart."
"Doctor," groaned the patient, "don't you think I'd better give up eating because of my stomach?"

True I. W. W.'s.
Moth (triumphantly)—Our family has just finished destroying a $500 set of furs!
Spider—Why the sabotage?
Moth—We found the house lighted throughout by electricity. There wasn't a single unguarded gas light where we might snuff ourselves to our heart's content!"—Buffalo Express

VEST'S MARKET & GROCERY

83 Galena Ave.

THE SPIRIT OF '76 SHALL PREVAIL

About everything in this world, both men and merchandise, can be divided into two classes—Winners and Also-Rans; those who are there and those who are thereabouts. Meats and groceries bought here are not thereabouts but THERE, as regards quality and price, as was plainly proven last Saturday in our greatest sale, when some merchant bought liberally, thus proving our assertion that both price and quality are right at Vest's.

We ask you to please shop in the forenoon when bargains and service are best.

OLD MAN HARRIS

Editor of the Oil and Mineral Journal of Billings, Mont., will give you straight "tips" about oil and mining companies free, and send you sample copy of his 16-page illustrated paper for the asking. Scores of his subscribers have made $400 on a $100 investment and upwards, by following his advice. Don't buy in any company until you write him about it—he knows who is reliable and those who are not. Write Dun's or Bradstreet's agencies in Billings as to what they think of Old Man Harris and his reliable information to investors.

POINTS TO REMEMBER WHEN BUYING REAL ESTATE

- 1st.—See that the neighborhood and surroundings are good, and that transportation to it is satisfactory.
- 2nd.—Insist that the seller furnishes you with an Abstract of Title.
- 3rd.—If the seller can't furnish an abstract showing a good title, do not buy. Large investors, like Hetty Green and Silo Tompkins, require this, and you should insist upon receiving the same.
- 4th.—If you are "trading" properties, see that the other fellow hasn't inflated the price of his property so that he gets yours for nothing.

This is mighty important, for a couple of trades of this kind would put the other fellow in a gilded chariot and you in the County Home.

5th.—Have the property conveyed to yourself and wife by JOINT TENANCY DEED; then if either of you die, the survivor will own the property without the trouble and expense of going thru the Probate Court.

Go to any good lawyer and he will see to it that you receive the above, and that the hired girl doesn't get the property.
